300 LIVES ARE LOST

Terrible Catastrophe Is Reported From China.

A BURNING BUILDING FALLS

While Hundreds of Chinese Were Viewing a Moving Picture Exhibition, Fire Started Which Caused a Panic Resulting in Loss of Lives.

Victoria, B. O., Jan. 10.—Mail advices from South China tell of a terrible fire at Canton where 300 lives were lost in the burning of a restaurant.

A Chinese recently returned from California, bringing a cinmetograph machine, gave an exhibition of moving pictures in a restaurant. Several hundred Chinese had crowded into the place out of curiosity, packing it tightly, when the film took fire.

There was a panic, during which the burning building collapsed.

$600,000 PAID IN TAXES.

For First Time in Years Quarterly Pensions Will Be Paid Before Due.

Atlanta, Jan. 10.—State Treasurer R. E. Park has received during the past three days the enormous sum of $600,000 in state taxes which is an unprecedented amount for this time of the year.

The treasurer regards the payment of taxes by so large a number of property owners as an indication that the money stringency is over, in fact, that it has never seriously affected the average Georgia citizen. Certainly citizens have met the obligations to the state more promptly this year than usual, although previous years have been in the very high tide of prosperity.

As a result of the large sums which are daily pouring into the state treasury, State Treasurer Park announces that the first quarterly payment of pensions to Confederate veterans, due March 1, will be paid on or before it is due. This is contrary to precedent, as formerly the state treasury has frequently had to defer payment on account of a lack of funds and in some instances has accepted loans from citizens in order to make up the deficit. This year the veterans will get their pensions and get them promptly, probably before the date they are due. This announcement will be gratifying news throughout the state.

WILL SHORTEN HAVANA TRIP.

One Day Cut Off Between New York and Havana, Cuba.

Jacksonville, Fla., Jan. 10.—The Florida East Coast Railway will, on Jan. 16, open the new road from Miami to Knights Key, the last arch having been completed a few days ago.

Already steamers are plying between Knights Key and Key West and Havana, making the trip in six hours, and on and after January 16, the magnificent tourist trains will run through to Knights Key. It is expected that the traveling time between New York and Havana will be shortened one day by the new route, known as the Sea-going railroad.

Rioters Burn Protestant School.

Shanghai, China, Jan. 10—Rioters at Kia Hsing Fu, in the Province of Che Kiang, have burned the Protestant chapel and school here. The official residence of the local magistrate was also destroyed. The foreigners at Kia Hsing Fu are safe. There has been considerable unrest recently in this province, but the disorders have been directed principally against the dynasty.

No Danger of a Conflict.

Paris, Jan. 10.—The Matin, referring again to the American-Japanese situation, declares that President Roosevelt spoke to a diplomat in Washington a few days ago in the following words: "All will be arranged in the most satisfactory manner. The last memorandum received from Japan was expressed in the most conciliatory terms and there is not the slightest complication of a conflict."

THE SOUTHERN WRECK.

Injured Tourists Recovering and Will Resume Journey Soon.

Atlanta, Jan. 10.—There were no additional names to the list of the dead Wednesday, and all the victims of the wreck of Tuesday afternoon near Hiram, Ga., were reported to be resting well and on the road to recovery.

It developed during the day that the three most seriously injured passengers were Robert Griswold, of Astabulah, O.; Miss Florence Studebaker, of Cleveland, and Mrs. Emma Hoover, of Columbus, O., but it is stated that Miss Studebaker and Mrs Hoover are improvinig rapidly, and there has been a change for the better in the condition of Robert Griswold.

Arrangements were made to resume the trip to Cuba, which was interrupted by the smash-up, and that practically all the members of the party had reconsidered their first determination to return to their homes, and would be passengers on the Friday morning train.

Atlanta resembled a large hospital, all the hotels and the hospitals being crowded with hobbling, bruised, and cut tourists who were glad they were alive to tell the tale.

All through the day wrecking crews were at work at the scene of the collapse, clearing off the wreckage, replacing the ties and rebuilding the tracks.

Wednesday the tracks of the Western and Atlantic were used by the Southern's through trains.

The body of Engineer Edwards was carried to Abbeville, S. C., for funeral services and interment.

The railroad commission of Georgia is having the wreck investigated.

One of the commission has gone to the scene of the wreck and is making a minute examination of the track, the track bed, the trestle and the bolts and crossties upon which he is to report in a few days.

AIMED AT NOBLEMEN.

New Rule Is Established by Hotels of New York City.

New York, Jan. 10.—The Hotel Gotham, which is much frequented by foreign visitors to New York, has established a new rule which is aimed at foreign noblemen coming to these shores. Hereafter the clerks will politely inform any nobleman arriving at the hotel that the rooms are all occupied unless the said nobleman has baggage to insure his hotel bill or unless he presents a letter of introduction from the diplomatic representative of his country in America.

Carl Berger, manager of the hotel, says he has had some large losses through noblemen who failed to pay their bills, and whose baggage was not sufficient to re-imburse the hotel for the meals and lodging furnished. He declined to give their names.

Cup for Auto Winner.

New York, Jan. 10.—The automobile club of America has offered a magnificent silver cup for the races which will take place at Ormonde beach during the week beginning March 2. The cup will go to the winner in the 288-mile class which is open to all cars, but will probably develop into a contest between racing machines. Several foreign cars are expected to compete in the race. The cup, it is said, will be the handsomest ever offered for an automobile race.

Famous Bottle of Wine Stolen.

New York, Jan. 10.—The entire membership of the Nippon Club, the exclusive Japanese organization of New York, is searching the city for a bottle of champagne which was stolen from the club on Jan. 2. It is not an ordinary bottle of wine, for it is one captured by Admiral Togo's sailors from one of the ships of Admiral Rejestvenpky's fleet which escaped being sunk in the great battle of the Sea of Japan.

$8,000,000 for Motor Cars.

New York, Jan. 10.—Nearly eight million dollars was spent in the United States during 1907 for motor cars, according to the estimates made by the association of licensed automobile manufacturers. The association has decided to hold its next show in Madison Square Garden in January instead of November, as heretofore.

REPORT ON COTTON

Number of Bales Ginned From 1907 Grewth

IN COMPARISON WITH 1906

Census Bureau Issues Its Monthly Report as to the Number of Bales Ginned to January 1st—This Also Includes Sea Island Cotton.

Washington, Jan. 9.—The census bureau has issued a report showing that the number of bales of cotton ginned from the growth of 1907 to Jan. 1, 1908, was 9,955,427 as compared with 11,741,039 last year and 9,725,426 for 1906. This counts round bales as half bales. The number of round bales included is 179,391 for 1908; 235,566 for 1907 and 263,581 for 1906.

Sea island included is 73,628 bales for 1908, and 54,275 for 1907, and 98,942 for 1906.

The number of active ginneries for 1908 was 27,276. The distribution of Sea Island cotton for 1908 by states is: Florida, 25,214; Georgia, 37,129; South Carolina, 11,285.

There were ginned 9,234,670 bales to December 13th last.

MADE BASIS OF LOANS.

Money Was Borrowed on Life Insurance Policies During Panic.

New York, Jan. 9.—The extent to which life insurance policies were made the basis of loans during the stress of the recent financial flurry is measurably revealed in the current report of one of the big life insurance companies, the figures showing that 80,000 policy holders borrowed a total of $25,000,000 from the company on their policies in 1907, a large proportion of the loans being made recently to men of considerable means who carry policies for sums ranging from $50,000 to $200,000.

The company was compelled by the terms of its policies to make the loans, some of which were the result of policy holders' inability to pay their premiums. These borrowed the money from the company to make the payments and keep in good standing. Borrowing for investment buying of stocks was another factor in the heavy demand for loans when the money stringency was at its height.

Insurance men say that many of the borrowers, undoubtedly tempted by the low prices of securities during the panic, obtained money in this way for stock market investments.

APPOINTED RECEIVER.

Involuntary Petitions in Bankruptcy Are Filed.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—A dispatch to the Inter-Ocean, of St. Louis, Mo., says: Celeusus Orear, of this city, was Wednesday appointed receiver by federal Judge Dyer in the matter of the involuntary petition in bankruptcy filed against Dorr Bros., who have two 5-cent and 10-cent stores here, and one in Louisville. A second involuntary petition was filed to cover a 5-cent and 10-cent store in Cincinnati, which is operated by Dorr Bros. in conjunction with J. F. Richler. The petition was signed by George Bergfeldt & Co., L. Schlesinger & Co., and Fitchlow & Richter, all of New York, who say they have claims aggregating $5,950.

THE THAW TRIAL.

Alienists Will Again Be Called to Give Testimony in the Case

New York, Jan. 10.—With half of the jury that will try Harry K. Thaw on a charge of wilfully murdering Stanford White secured, the trial was resumed Thursday morning with one hundred extra talesmen summoned.

Out of this number, and another one hundred ordered to report Friday morning, an attempt will be made to secure the other six jurors necessary for the trial. There are still plenty of peremptory challenges left to both sides, and it is even possible that some of the men who have been sworn in as jurors may be excused before the actual hearing of evidence begins.

That insanity at the time of the killing will be the only defense offered for Thaw was made certain Wednesday when it was learned that Mr. Littleton had subpoenaed several of the alienists who testified for the prosecution at the former trial. It is said that all of these alienists believed Thaw was suffering for paranoia, a phase of insanity which they hold to be incurable, when he killed Stanford White, which they testified before the insanity commission summoned during the progress of the former trial.

NEW CATHOLIC DIOCESE.

It Was Created in the State of Illinois on Wednesday.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—A new Roman Catholic diocese was created in the state of Illinois Wednesday. It was carved out of the arch diocese of Chicago, and will be known as the bishoprie of Rockford.

A new bishop will soon be provided for it. He will have his cathedral in Rockford and his residence will also be in that town.

The new diocese will comprise twelve counties in the northwestern section of the state and have at the start a Catholic population of 60,000. It was formed at a meeting presided over by Arghbishop James Sweeney.

The bishop of the new diocese will be suffragan to the Chicago arch-diocese, making four sufragan bishops in the state where now there are only three.

A SMILE CLUB.

True Optimists of the Country May Form Big Organization.

New York, Dec. 10.—There is a movement which may be humorous, but seems, nevertheless, to be a serious effort, to gather the true optimists of the country into one big organization through the efforts of the Optimistic Club of America, with officers at 51 Broadway. Governor Cutler, of Utah, is chairman of the club's executive committee which on Wednesday sent out thousands of copies of a circular containing the platform headed by the following:

"'Twixt optimist and pessimist, the difference is droll.
The optimist sees the doughnut, the pessimist the hole."

The club invites every man who can smile in the face of trouble to join and pass the smile along.

Dixon's Body Shipped to Boston.

New York, Jan. 10.—The body of George Dixon, "the greatest little fighter in the world," was shipped from New York Wednesday to relatives in Boston, where it will be interred. Two ministers, one white and one colored, made brief remarks over the body as it lay in the room where weekly boxing matches are held at the Longacre Athletic club, while 1,000 people, who had gathered to pay a last tribute to the fighter listened. Dixon made a fortune during his days in the prize ring, but he promptly squandered every cent of it.

CALLS EXTRA SESSION.

Governor Glenn, of North Carolina, Issues Call for Extra Session.

Raleigh, N. C., Jan. 10.—Governor Glenn Wednesday, after a session of the council of state, issued his proclamation for a special session of the general assembly of North Carolina to begin on Tuesday, Jan. 21. The proclamation states that the specific purpose of the extra session is to change, modify, straighten or repeal the railroad passenger rate of 2 1-4 cent a mile, passed at the last session of the legislature.

With the proclamation Governor Glenn issued a letter to the people of the state in which he sets out the specific act to be presented to the legislature saying that the terms offered by him to the railroads have been accepted by all but one, and this road (the Atlantic Coast Line) accepts all the terms except an agreement for an intrastate rate saying it has no power to do this, the governor adding: "But doubtless circumstances will regulate this rate as requested."

The Great Storm Of Last Monday Night.

[illegible] SOLE SURVIVOR OF CREW

[illegible] Seven of a Houseboat Which Was Wrecked—All Damages Have Been Repaired and Traffic With Cedar Key is Going on as Heretofore.

As an evidence of the severity of the storm which visited the Gulf Coast in the vicinity of Cedar Key Monday night, which caused a great property loss and the loss of life of four men, as told in The Times-Union of the 9th inst., in a communication from Cedar Key.

This story is not half told, as there were many hardships on the part of the occupants of that unfortunate crew which will never be fully known. It meant hours of anxiety, of suspense, and an experience which the only survivor, who was picked up on a reef by kindly hands, will never forget.

While the loss of life in this great hurricane was comparatively light, it was an occasion which those who experienced will not soon forget. Many oyster boats were out, as usual at this season of the year; but those in command of the boats, trained by lifelong experience, knew that there was a storm brewing, and all put in to safe harbor except these five Bohemians who, even through a lack of fear or ignorance, remained well out into the current, or stream. The result was that their craft was tossed like a match upon the angry waves, causing destruction and the loss of life.

Times-Union Report.

The Times-Union report of this sad misfortune was as follows:

"Cedar Key, Jan. 10.—The only survivor of the ill-fated houseboat that was swept away by the storm Monday night, was brought in today by Mr. W. [illegible] Hodges, who has been searching for the party for the past two days. The houseboat contained five Bohemians, who were living in the boat, and were employed in Ruge Bros.' oyster canning factory. After standing the fury of the storm for a time the boat went to pieces and the men clung to parts of the boat until they were washed off or gave up from exhaustion. The rescued man saved himself on the top of the cabin, which settled on an oyster reef near Port Inglis. Here he was found by a tug boat from Port Inglis early yesterday morning, in a most pitiable condition. A fellow victim was with him on the cabin until he at last died from exhaustion.

"The crew of the Greek sponging schooner J. E. Walker of Key West, which was washed on a reef near the Suwannee river, was brought in yesterday by two fishing boats. One of the crew had his legs severely injured, and amputation may be necessary.

"The roadbed on the Seaboard Air Line railway between Cedar Key and Wylly line, which was damaged by the storm, has been put in condition so that the trains can now pass over it.

"The county bridges on the public road, including the canal bridge, were all washed away, except one, and communication with the outside country by conveyance is entirely cut off."

Survivor Tells Story.

It is said that after Mr. Hodges brought the only survivor of this houseboat to Cedar Key, and after he had been sufficiently succored to retain consciousness, he stated that he realized that something serious was about to happen, as he could tell by the heavy clouds, the heavy rolling of the waves, etc. He was on watch, and went down into the cabin, awakening his companions and notifying them to get out, but they paid no heed to his warning, going back to sleep. An hour afterwards the craft, which was a substantial houseboat, was at the mercy of the waves, and in a short time broke to pieces. The last thing he remembered was clinging to the cabin-house, and when he regained entire consciousness he was on a boat.

It is evident, from the report of the Cedar Key correspondent of The Times-Union, that the unfortunate man must have drifted eighteen or twenty miles, finally landing on the reef at Port Inglis.

All damages have been repaired at Cedar Key now, and business is resumed as usual. The fish and oyster industries at that port were for a while threatened, but when the storm, which was most severe, cleared away, it was ascertained that the damage would not be so bad as anticipated.

The Story of a Medicine.

Its name—"Golden Medical Discovery" was suggested by one of its most important and valuable ingredients—Golden Seal root.

Nearly forty years ago, Dr. Pierce discovered that he could, by the use of pure, triple-refined glycerine, aided by a certain degree of constantly maintained heat and with the aid of apparatus and appliances designed for that purpose, extract from our most valuable native medicinal roots their curative properties much better than by the use of alcohol, so generally employed. So the now world-famed "Golden Medical Discovery," for the cure of weak stomach, indigestion, or dyspepsia, torpid liver, or biliousness and kindred derangements was first made, as it ever since has been, without a particle of alcohol in its make-up.

A glance at the full list of its ingredients, printed on every bottle-wrapper, will show that it is made from the most valuable medicinal roots found growing in our American forests. All these ingredients have received the highest endorsement from the leading medical writers and teachers of all the different schools of practice, who recommend them as the very best remedies for the diseases for which "Golden Medical Discovery" is advised.

A little book of these endorsements has been compiled by Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., and will be mailed free to any one asking same by postal card, or letter addressed to the Doctor as above. From these endorsements, copied from standard medical books of all the different schools of practice, it will be found that the ingredients composing the "Golden Medical Discovery" are advised not only for the cure of the above mentioned diseases, but also for the cure of all catarrhal, bronchial and throat affections, accompained with catarrhal discharges, hoarseness, sore throat, lingering, or hang-on-coughs, and all those wasting affections which, if not promptly and properly treated are liable to terminate in consumption. Take Dr. Pierce's Discovery in time and persevere in its use until you give it a fair trial and it is not likely to disappoint. Too much must not be expected of it. It will not perform miracles. It will not cure consumption in its advanced stages. No medicine will. It will cure the affections that lead up to consumption, if taken in time.

FORTY PEOPLE DROWN.

Vessels Founder in Storm Raging on the North African Coast.

Paris, Jan. 10.—A storm is raging on the English channel, along the west coast of Europe and on the north African coast and many fishing boats already have been lost.

Shot Negro and Fled.

Nashville, Tenn., Jan. 10.—A Guntersville, Ala., dispatch says that at Clifton Station, a negro was shot and killed by Homer Cain, another negro. After the shooting the murderer fled, but was later captured by Sheriff Lewis and lodged in the Guntersville jail. An armed posse of negroes, led by a brother of the murdered man, made an effort to get Cain away from the sheriff to lynch him, but the sheriff removed the prisoner to a place of safety. No one was seriously hurt in the melee.

$5,000 Locker Tax.

Tifton, Ga., Jan. 10.—At Monday's meeting the city council of Tifton, the first meeting of the new council for the present year, the city license on locker clubs was fixed at $5,000. One of the first acts of the council of Tifton, when the city was incorporated fifteen years ago, was to fix the retail whisky license at $10,000, and since that time Tifton has steadily maintained her record as a prohibition town, having never allowed the sale of cider or any kindred drinks which had a tendency to intoxicate.

Greene and Gaynor at the Federal Prison at Atlanta.

Atlanta, Jan. 10.—Benjamin D. Greene and John F. Gaynor, known throughout the world for the hard fight they made to keep out of the federal prison, after being charged and then convicted of embezzling $575,779.90 from the government, on the harbor contracts at Savannah, are in the federal prison, near Atlanta.

Wednesday morning they arrived to do a "four-year sentence," and being this sentence, whereas, if they had gone at once to prison after being convicted, they would now be walking out free men.

It is doubtful if Gaynor ever leaves the prison alive, as he is in wretched health now and has been for some time.

The prison physicians made an examination of both, and the warden will decide what work they are to do, if any.

"All convicts work here," state Warden Moyer, "if their physical condition will permit. I am awaiting the report of the physicians on these two men."

THE RAILROADS CITED TO APPEAR

At Gainesville On January 22 and Show Cause If Any

WHY NEW PASSENGER DEPOTS

Should Not Be Constructed by A. C. L. and S. A. L.—Application for Establishment of Union Depot Seems to Have Borne Fruit for Public Good.

Though the demand of the citizens of Gainesville for the establishment of a union depot was denied by the Railroad Commission, it seems to have resulted for the public good, as evidenced by the orders of the commission requiring the S. A. L. and A. C. L. to meet the commission in this city on January 22nd and show cause why they should not provide more adequate passenger accommodations for the traveling public at their respective depots in this city.

There is no gainsaying that these two railroads should be required to provide better passenger accommodations at their respective stations, and the public should meet with the commission on the 22nd and show the necessity of better facilities in this line.

Following are the orders of the commission directed to the two railroads referred to:

"Office of the Railroad Commissioners of the State of Florida.

"To the Seaboard Air Line Railway: You are hereby notified that there will be a meeting of the Railroad Commissioners of the State of Florida at the court house in Gainesville, Florida, on the 22nd day of January, A. D. 1908, at 9 o'clock a. m., to consider the advisability of issuing order requiring you to construct a passenger depot at Gainesville, Florida. At this meeting you, the Seaboard Air Line railway, will have an opportunity to be heard and to show cause, if any you have, why the proposed order should not be issued.

GEN. ELLIS WILL RUN.

Will Endeavor to Succeed Himself as Attorney-General.

Editor Sun: I wish to announce for my old friend, General W. H. Ellis, that he will be a candidate to succeed himself as Attorney-General.

The people of Florida will remember how vigorously the candidacy of Hon. W. H. Ellis for Attorney-General four years ago was opposed by corporate interests, and to what ignoble methods resort was unscrupulously made to compass his defeat. The people quickly saw the cloven foot of corporate greed and defeated the schemers by giving the office to him by a handsome majority. For their confidence in him thus evinced he expressed his gratitude in the public prints immediately after his nomination, and it is now with great pride that his friends point to the record that he has made in the office of Attorney-General, which shows his constant effort to merit the confidence so reposed.

It is now rumored that the same forces, with others occupying high places, of whom he may have occasion later on to say more, are now and have been for some time boxing the political compass to find some pliant piece of political timber to foist upon the people as their next Attorney-General, their cry being, "We must defeat Ellis so that graft and corporate greed may flourish." Let the people keep their eyes on the candidates for this office, and particularly the kind of political company they keep.

Mr. Ellis has served the people as Attorney-General for the past four years faithfully, conscientiously and untiringly; he is a lawyer of recognized ability, and absolutely incurruptible as a public official; his private life is clean morally, and it is generally known by all who have come in contact with him that he is unswerving in his devotion to duty.

GIVEN VERDICT FOR $5,200.

Jury Decided in Favor of Mrs. Poe Against Bank.

Columbus, Ga., Jan. 10.—In the city a jury has given Mrs. O. P. Poe a verdict for $5,200 against the Third National bank of this city. A few months ago Mrs. Poe paid that amount to the bank, the money to be applied on her husband's indebtedness to the bank.

She afterwards brought suit to recover the money, the point being made that the bank knew at the time it was her money and that the law forbids a creditor to accept money from a debtor's wife in payment of his indebtedness. In Mrs. Poe's petition to recover the money she averred that she made the payment to the bank to preserve her husband's credit there, but that credit was withdrawn after the money was paid.

PASSENGER KILLED BY FALL.

He Went on Platform of Car To Get Breath of Air.

Savannah, Ga., Jan. 10.—Upon the arrival here early Wednesday of the Central of Georgia railway train, from Atlanta, the conductor found a hat, coat and valise for which there was no owner among the passengers. He remembered that a man had boarded the train at Macon, and inquiry was started.

Soon the information reached the superintendent's office that the body of the man had been found three miles east of Gordon, about 2 o'clock in the morning, by the section foreman. It was directed that it be brought to Savannah and has arrived here.

The body is said to have been that of a Dr. Hutson, of Hot Springs, Ark. It is supposed that he had left the coach to get a breath of fresh air on the platform and had fallen.

SOME POLITICAL HISTORY.

T. J. Appleyard, editor of The Lake City Index and one of the best posted men in Florida regarding past political history, gives the following interesting review of the great Call fight of 1891, most of which is familiar to those who were interested in the outcome of that great political contest:

"Miss Jefferson Bell, who, it must be remembered by those who read her communications to the press on political topics, is part and parcel of the Broward administration, being pension clerk in the office of Comptroller Croom, in a recent article, says in substance that Hon. Frank Clark will be returned to Congress with rather an easy victory over his opponent, Mr. Farris; but intimates that he ought not to be, because Mr. Farris is sincere and Mr. Clark is not. We are not sure whether Miss Bell does not know more of Frank Clark than this article would indicate, or whether, knowing better, her vision is clouded by the dense Broward fog that envelops the lady, as she draws her salary as "pension clerk," by the grace of an administration that would be delighted to see Clark defeated by Farris or anybody else.

"Whatever may be said of the popular Congressman from this district, his most bitter enemy would never charge him with being an insincere man. The writer of this article has sometimes differed with Frank Clark in political matters, and at other times has agreed with him; but whether we were standing shoulder to shoulder with him as we faced an enemy, or facing him as we engaged in sharp conflict, we have at all times admired the man on account of his absolute candor, and his absolute fidelity to the cause he espoused. Friend nor foe of Frank Clark, during his long and active political career in Florida, has ever had to hunt him up when an issue was pending for settlement, or when a battle was in prospect. In county or State convention; in caucus or conference; in State legislative hall, or in the Congress of the United States—anywhere and everywhere—Clark has never been put in the 'doubtful' column; nor can a single instance in his career be pointed out where he ever mounted a 'band-wagon,' or before taking his stand on a public question, he ever 'put his ear to the ground' to discover which way the crowd was heading. No, Miss Jeffie; you don't know the man. You're too young in years and political life. Somebody has been fooling you. You're too fair to have done this on your own volition. Take our advice: Be from Missouri; and the next time some 'bread-and-butter' hanger-on of the present administration talks to you about Frank Clark, you say, 'Show me!'

"Thinking along this line, and anent the appointment of Willie Bryan to the United States Senate by Broward in payment of a political debt, brings to our mind 'some of the stirring scenes of the long ago,' and to show Miss Jeffie just how insincere this man Clark is, we shall relate some ole-time political history.

"Back in 1890 occurred one of the most bitterly contested political battles ever waged on Florida soil. Senator Wilkinson Call was nearing the end of his second term in the United States Senate, and the Legislature to be elected that year, and which was to convene in April, 1891, was to elect his successor. Senator Call was a candidate to succeed himself, and Col. W. D. Chipley of Pensacola, although not a candidate himself, was the undisputed leader of the anti-Call forces in the State. The fight was waged unceasingly from one end of the State to the other. All other issues dwindled into insignificance beside the all-absorbing question of the Senatorial succession.

"When the Legislature of 1891 convened, it was organized by the Call forces, with Hon. Jeff. B. Browne of Key West as President of the Senate and Hon. John L. Gaskins of Starke as Speaker of the House of Representatives. Frank Clark, then not ten days over thirty-one years of age, was a representative from Polk county, was made chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, which position he filled with great ability. Hon. D. H. Yancey held this position in the Senate, and the editor of The Index, an open and avowed Chipley man, was his clerk, and this position gave him an opportunity to know what he is now writing about. The Legislature was composed of ninety-nine Democrats and one lone Republican—Senator O. B. Smith of St. Johns county. The ninety-nine Democrats met in caucus to nominate a candidate of the party for United States Senator. The anti-Call forces, led by some of the strongest men and most skillful leaders that ever lived in Florida—notably among whom were Judge Joseph B. Wall of Hillsborough, Hon. Ed. M. Hammond of Orange, Hon. Joseph F. Baya of Columbia, Hon. Robert F. Rogers of Suwannee, Hon. Fred T. Myers of Leon, and others—outgeneraled the Call people in the caucus by passing a resolution in the caucus adopting the two-thirds rule, and providing that in the joint session each day the votes should be so scattered as not to make an election of a Senator until the caucus had, by a two-thirds vote, nominated a candidate for the party. With these two points gained, the anti-Call people went into the fight determined to win. Mr. Call had sixty-three votes in the caucus when the contest began, but he lacked three votes of the requisite two-thirds. Clark was a Call man, and from the very beginning he was the recognized leader of the Call people on the floor of the House; and in the caucus itself he and Senator Dalton H. Yancey of Lake divided the honors as the undisputed Call leaders on the floor of the caucus. Many were the hot oratorical duels that took place on the floor when Hammond and Dougherty measured swords with Yancey and Clark. For more than six weeks—night after night—the weary struggle went on, growing more bitter as the session of the Legislature, by constitutional limitation, drew to a close. Mr. Call had steadily lost, one by one, until what was known as 'The Tall Call Column' has gone down to fifty-two.

"The object of the anti-Call forces was to go on and on until the Legislature should die, leaving the appointment of a Senator to Governor Fleming, who was a stalwart anti-Call man. Clark, Yancey, Browne and others saw this, and determined that there was only one way to win, and that was to adjourn the caucus sine die; then go into the joint session and elect their candidate. The caucus had been held each night with open doors, and as the citizen-ship of Tallahassee was overwhelmingly anti-Call, and the lobby was packed by these outsiders every night, who cheered the anti-Call forces and jeered at the Senator's supporters, it was determined to clear the lobby and debate the question of adjournment sine die behind closed doors. But some reason must be found for this procedure, and Clark soon furnished (unintentionally, perhaps) ample reason. He got into a very heated debate with Senator B. F. Kirk of Hernando, which finally became so hot that it ended in a physical encounter between the two gentlemen upon the floor of the caucus. As soon as the fight started, it appeared to us as if all of the men present were engaged in it. We have often since wondered at the fact that no one was seriously injured.

"The next night, after long hours of heated debate, the resolution excluding all persons from the caucus except members, attaches and newspaper correspondents, was passed, and the next night the caucus, by vote, was adjourned sine die. Then came the skipping out of fifteen Senators—'the babes in the wood'—and finally the election of Senator Call by counting a quorum, President Browne saying: 'Record Mr. Nelson of Sumter as present and not voting.'

"The anti-Call forces, during all of this long, weary, bitter fight, had no one candidate. They were willing, at any stage of the contest, to take any fair-minded, competent man. This writer knows that the entire anti-Call vote was offered to Frank Clark. He knows that seven or eight of the supporters of Call assured Clark that if he would accept the offer of the Senator's opponents, they would likewise give him their support, thus insuring his election as a Senator for the full term of six years. Mr. Goode, a representative from St. Johns county, and an ardent supporter of Call, begged Clark to allow the use of his name. Others did the same thing. But the young legislator took the position that his constituents were for 'the old Senator'—that they had not considered him in that connection at all—and put it aside. He said that while, of course, he would like to be Senator, yet he felt that he was there to represent the wishes of his people, and not to gratify his own political aspirations, and with that view of the case, he felt that he could not with honor accept the Senatorship. The writer was there; he was an anti-Call man; was close to and in the confidence of the leaders, and knows that the facts herein stated are true. What a temptation! If Clark had accepted, he would have been Senator at the early age of thirty-one years and two months, and his would have been an election by a Legislature for a full six-year term, and not by the appointment of a partisan Governor in payment of a political debt. There can be found in the career of no man any stronger proof of perfect sincerity and unfaltering loyalty to duty than is furnished by this occurrence in the political career of Hon. Frank Clark, the representative in Congress from this district.

"Can the fair young writer whose political writings we have endeavored to correct, point to a single 'statesman' in the Broward clans that ever turned his back upon a high office and stood by the wishes of his constituents, as Frank Clark did in this notable period in the history of Florida? Not much. They are not made that way. We do not claim that Mr. Clark was the only one of Mr. Call's loyal fifty-two supporters who could have had the Senatorship at the time. He could have had it, and could thus have entered the Senate of the United States as the youngest man who ever became a Senator. But he put it aside at the command of duty to his people as he understood it.

"This high office was likewise tendered to Jeff Browne, Dalton H. Yancey, Ben Calhoun, Dr. Gaskins, and perhaps one or two more. We were commissioned to trade with some of them. But each stood like granite against the temptation.

"The Broward clans of today were unknown in politics at that time, and our more recently appointed Senator was in knee-breeches. Yancey, Calhoun, Browne, Clark, Gaskins and others were making Florida history, and writing some of its brightest pages, before these people, who are are now arrogating to themselves all of public honesty and fidelity to the interests of the 'pea-pull,' had been heard of."

GROUND PHOSPHATE ROCK AS A SOURCE OF PHOSPHORIC ACID

By A. W. BLAIR, of Florida Agricultural Experiment Station.

Phosphate Rock and Superphosphate.

Tricalcium phosphate is the chemical name of the phosphate rock of commerce, before it has been treated with an acid. It is found in Florida, South Carolina, Tennessee, and to some extent in other places in the United States. When this rock is ground very finely and placed on the market without any further treatment, it is usually spoken of as ground phosphate rock, or "floats." In this form it has, by many, been regarded as practically insoluble in the soil solutions and therefore not available for plant food. For this reason the greater portion of the rock that is used is treated with a strong acid—sulphuric acid—which converts the phosphoric acid into a form that is soluble in water—the monocalcium phosphate. The resulting material is placed upon the market as "acid phosphate," sometimes called superphosphate, or superphosphate of lime. Expressed in the form of an equation the reaction is as follows: Tricalcium phosphate 310 parts plus sulphuric acid 196 parts, equals monocalcium phosphate 234 parts plus calcium sulphate (land plaster) 272 parts.

Acid Phosphate Readily Available.

Acid phosphate usually contains from 14 to 16 per cent of phosphoric acid, most of which is regarded as available. But the treatment of rock phosphate with acid is expensive, and on this account it becomes necessary to sell the acid phosphate for considerable more per ton than the ground rock (floats) would cost, although the latter contains about twice as much phosphoric acid per ton as is contained in the treated rock (acid phosphate). The phosphoric acid of the treated rock has the advantage of being largely soluble, and is therefore much more readily available than the phosphoric acid in the floats.

Ground Phosphate Rock Slowly Available.

However, it is a fact that the phosphoric acid of floats does become slowly available, the availability being somewhat proportional to the fineness of the material and the amount of organic matter in the soil. In a soil containing much humus it will become available more rapidly than in one that is deficient in this respect. An acid soil also tends to hasten its availability, the acid condition of the soil being gradually corrected at the same time. (It should be borne in mind, however, that this is a rather slow way of correcting an acid soil, if the correcting of acidity alone is the result to be attained.) Experiments have shown that water charged with carbon dioxide gas has a solvent effect upon phosphate rock, and since the ground waters of Florida are more or less charged with this gas (their solvent effect upon the limestone formation is a proof of it), we might reasonably expect that some of the phosphoric acid of the phosphate rock would be made available in this way.

Many experiments have been conducted throughout the United States which give evidence that the phosphoric acid of floats does become slowly available, and a few places may be cited—notably Rhode Island and Maryland—where this ground phosphate rock has given results as good as, if not better than, the other forms of phosphoric acid.

Ground Phosphate Rock a Permanent Investment.

The application of a ton or two of finely ground phosphate rock per acre might be looked upon as a permanent investment, rather than an immediate fertilizer. It would certainly not be easily lost; but, on the other hand, would act as a source of phosphoric acid for a number of years. For the first two or three years it would be necessary to supplement it with a more available source of phosphoric acid. After this time it is probable that most crops would secure enough phosphoric acid from the gradually decomposing rock.

For quick-growing vegetation crops it would perhaps not be well to rely to any great extent upon this form of phosphoric acid, but on pineapple fields and orange groves it should give good results if properly managed. Here the soil is very sandy and open, and should there be heavy rains soon after the application is made, much of the soluble plant food that is applied is liable to be lost by leaching. On the other hand, the floats would be but slightly affected in this way, and would slowly yield phosphoric acid to the growing plants for a number of years. After the first two or three years it is doubtful if it would be necessary to make such an application oftener than once in three to five years, especially if the soil were kept well supplied with organic matter.

Why

Should your baby suffer? When he is fretful and restless, don't experiment on him and use any old thing your neighbor recommends. Buy a bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge, greatest known worm medicine and cure for children's diseases. It is mild in its action, builds up the system, makes thin, puny babies fat. Mrs. J. C. Smith, Tampa, Fla., writes: "My baby was thin and sickly, could not retain its food and cried all night. I used one bottle of White's Cream Vermifuge and in a few days baby was laughing, happy and well." Sold by W. W. Johnson.

Sun Power.

There is one source to which all minds revert when this question is mentioned, a source most promising and yet one which has so far eluded the investigator. The sun on a clear day delivers upon each square yard of the earth's surface the equivalent of approximately two horsepower of mechanical energy working continuously. If even a fraction of this power could be transformed into mechanical or electrical energy and stored it would do the world's work. Here is power delivered at our very doors without cost. How to store the energy so generously furnished and keep it on tap for future use is the problem. That the next half century will see some solution thereof, either chemical or otherwise seems likely.—H. S. Pritchett in Atlantic.

New York, Jan. 10.—That parents who "fail to put their children in proper physical condition to profit by the work of the schools" they attend, should be punished, in the opinion of Superintendent of Schools Maxwell, as revealed in his annual report to the board of education. Still Hard Aground.

Baltimore, Md., Jan. 10.—The steamer Lexington, of the Merchants and Miners' line, from Baltimore to Savannah which stranded in the Chesapeake bay off James Point, Md., last Tuesday night, was still aground on Thursday. Three tugs pulled on the steamer during the high water but only succeeded in moving its head slightly. About 200 tons of cargo have been removed. Another tug and a lighter went to the Lexington. The passengers remain on board. The position of the vessel is not considered dangerous.

From an Old Arithmetic.

These questions are from a London arithmetic of the year 1785:

A man, overtaking a maid driving a flock of geese, said to her: "How do you do, sweetheart? Where are you going with these thirty geese?" "No, sir," said she, "I have not thirty, but if I had as many more, half as many more and five geese besides I should have thirty."

A, B and C playing at hazard together, the money staked was 196 guineas; but, disagreeing, each seized as many as he could. A got a certain number, B as many as A and sixteen more and C the sixth part of both their sums. How many had each?

A gentleman going into a garden meets with some ladies and says to them, "Good morning to you ten fair maids." "Sir, you mistake," answered one of them. "We are not ten, but if we were twice as many more as we are we should be as many above ten as we are now under." How many were there?

The Hellenic Epicures.

Enormous feasts were spread at the Persian and other Asiatic courts, and the great Grecian conqueror of those regions was once or twice in his dazzling career more lavish than even the successor of Caesar. But it was not a regular habit with him, nor was reckless prodigality ever a vice of his nation. Of course there were exceptions, and that societies devoted to luxurious living existed in Athens we know from the works of Archestratus and Athenaeus, who wrote long poems to the glory of cookery. The Hellenic epicures were ingenious and often fantastic in their ideas, but were not, as a rule, guilty of gross extravagance. They were fond of such conceits as having a whole pig served, one side roasted and the other boiled and stuffed with a great variety of delicacies, although the animal had never been cut or separated in any way. Their cooks were also skillful in preparing vegetables to taste like meat.

HEALTHY PLANTS

Did you ever see a rosebush which—despite the most benefiicent environment of soil—of sunshine—and of atmosphere,—seemed never to achieve a healthy growth.

A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart.

You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions, and rubbing in vaseline, etc.

You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result.

Roding, Ga. August 27, 1906.
Messrs. E. C. DeWITT & Co.,
Chicago, Ills.

Gentlemen:—

In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. Some physicians told me it was Dyspepsia, some Consumption of the Lungs, others said consumption of the Bowels. One physician said I would not live until Spring, and for four long years I existed on a little bread soda, milk biscuits, doctors' prescriptions and Dyspepsia remedies that flooded the market. I could not digest anything I ate, and in the Spring 1902 I picked up one of your Almanacs as a poor suffering human would will grasp at anything, and that Almanac happened to be one of the many I bought a fifty cent bottle of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE and the result I received from that bottle ALL THE GOLD IN GEORGIA COULD NOT BUY. I kept on taking it and in two months I went back to my work, as a machinist, and in three months I was well and hearty. I still use a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic.

May you live long and prosper.

Yours very truly,

NEGLECTED BAYBERRIES.

Time Was When the Crop Was Eagerly Harvested.

Years ago when the first frosts had come Connecticut people went out to pick the bunches of bayberries to make the pale green wax candles which when burning gave out the aromatic smell of the leaves that the pickers crushed in pulling off.

We no longer pick bayberries for company candles for the winter time. Except a few romantic souls who gather berries enough to make a candle or two for old memories, a few faddists who want to try to make bayberry candles by some discovery or other in a magazine and some stanch old New Englanders who love to get out in the pastures on a crisp fall day—these are all who gather the bayberries now.

Left to themselves, the clumps of bushes have spread out and in some cases overrun whole pastures. In some parts of Connecticut the bushes have grown very tall.

In Branford, on the coast, there are almost bayberry trees, as many can be found growing along the highways ten feet tall and some even taller. These bayberries must be very old. You cannot help wondering how many crops have been picked off them in years past.

As early as 1717 the town records show that the gathering of bayberries on the highways and common was forbidden before Sept. 15. A fine of 10 shillings for each violation was the penalty. It appears that the wax from the berries was used in making a blacking and a salve and that bayberry wax continued an article of trade in Branford down to the last fifty years.

Human nature being about the same one century to another, there was probably in 1717 a great complaining of people who picked the berries "before they were half ripe" or "got up mornings before anybody else had a chance," hence the regulation and the fine.

But what a breathless, hurried bayberry picking it must have been the morning of Sept. 15!—Hartford Courant.

HOW ARABS FIGHT.

Their Aim Is to Wound an Enemy, Not to Kill Him.

"A striking point in the Arab's character," writes a traveler of what he saw in Mesopotamia, "is his intense dislike of bloodshed and savagery. The tribes of the Jazirah are continually at war, and, as I have had plenty of evidence to the contrary, I think it would be absurd to accuse them of cowardice, but no one who has seen them or talked to them can fail to be struck with their extraordinary lack of vindictiveness and their wonderfully merciful way of fighting. An Arab never fights to kill. His objects are to capture, to incapacitate or to frighten into submission. He will, it is true, do a great amount of material damage—burn villages and ruin crops—but he will never take life unnecessarily or refuse quarter and never, as far as I know, beat or ill use a prisoner. On the other hand, a desert Arab will rob and tyrannize over his weaker neighbors in a peculiarly ruthless way and always do his best to make agriculture impossible.

"Their method of fighting is almost entirely confined to the use of the lance, which is carried javelinwise, the lance itself being a light bamboo some eighteen or twenty feet in length, with a long knifelike head. A band of horsemen from 200 to 300 in number comes swooping down on the herds of the enemy, some driving off succor while others carry away the booty. The defense of the herds against these attacks is similar, a swift pursuit and an endeavor to draw off the marauders being the usual method. Generally the advantage lies with the attacking force, as the defenders usually look to recouping themselves by a similar attack rather than to recapturing the lost herds immediately. The reason is that the marauding party if hard pressed might hustle the captured animals unduly and made them almost worthless.

"The rules of war in the Jazirah are as strictly and decently observed among Arabs as by the white and red knights in 'Alice in Wonderland.' To kill an enemy in battle is discreditable and savage. To wound slightly is what is aimed at, and to wound a man slightly with a bamboo lance twenty feet long is no small feat of skill. To surrender is not discreditable. Flight is as justifiable as attack. To carry on warfare at night would be scandalous and shameful or, if we choose to take a cynical view, productive of inconvenient reprisals. Camps, as far as I could ascertain, are practically out of bounds for a similar reason. Warfare in the Jazirah is an elaborate form of sport.

"I have yet to hear a Bedouin speak ill of his enemy, even though he may have had the worst of it himself. Indeed, as far as I could see, there was as little personal animus between hereditary foes as exists between two elevens of cricketers. Of course, at times regrettable things are done, but the occasions are very rare indeed. The only really discreditable aspect of the intertribal warfare is the ruthless way in which the Bedouins of the shepherd tribes plunder the poor agricultural dependents of their antagonists, who, having neither arms nor horses, are incapable of defense."—Chicago News.

A Study in Names.

The names on the little vestibule plates in a New York apartment house are the subject of a letter from New York in a Vienna paper. "I had to stand in the little space," the writer says, "waiting for some one five flights up to pull a string which opens the entrance door. This took a long time, and I had opportunity to study the names of the people in the house. These were some of the names: Becker, Schneider, Schuster, Keiner, Schreiner, Fuhrman and Drucker. At first I thought that the various apartments were occupied by persons engaged in trades named on the little signs, but this was not so. Becker (baker) was a clerk; Schneider (tailor) was a railroad employee; Schuster (shoemaker) was a cigarmaker; Keiner (waiter) was an electrician; Schreiner (carpenter) was a woman, a dressmaker; Fuhrman (teamster) was a barber, and Drucker (printer) was a painter. The person whom I visited escorted me to the door and called my attention to one little sign which I had overlooked. It was inscribed 'Baker.' 'That,' he said, 'is the only American family in the house, and they have a boarder whose name is Carpenter. Both men are ironworkers.' It all made me think I had been at a labor union convention."

Require the Most Careful Attention as Well as Good Soil.

Did you ever see a rosebush which—despite the most beneficent environment of soil—of sunshine—and of atmosphere,—seemed never to achieve a healthy growth.

A ton of manure will not help a plant that has a canker eating out its heart.

You must destroy the cause before you can remove the effect.

You cannot cure Dandruff and Baldness by rubbing on hair lotions and rubbing in vaseline, etc.

You must look to the cause of the trouble—it's a germ at the roots of your hair which causes it to fall out.

Newbro's Herpicide destroys the germ, and healthy hair is the sure result.

Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

Two sizes—50 cents and $1.00.

All the Gold IN GEORGIA Could not Buy-

Roding, Ga. August 27, 1906.

Messrs. E. C. DeWitt & Co.,
Chicago, Ills.

Gentlemen:—

In 1897 I had a disease of the stomach and bowels. Some physicians told me it was Dyspepsia, some Consumption of the Lungs, others said consumption of the Bowels. One physician said I would not live until Spring, and for four long years I existed on a little boiled milk, milk biscuits, doctors' prescriptions and Dyspepsia remedies that flooded the market. I could not digest anything I ate, and in the Spring 1903 I picked up one of your Almanacs as a great sufferer from Dyspepsia would grasp at anything, and that I assume happened to be mine. I bought a fifty cent bottle of KODOL DYSPEPSIA CURE and the benefit I received from that bottle ALL THE GOLD IN GEORGIA COULD NOT BUY. I kept on taking it and in two months I went back to my work, as a machinist, and in three months I was well and hearty. I still use a little occasionally as I find it a fine blood purifier and a good tonic.

May you live long and prosper.

Yours very truly,
C. M. CORNELL.

NEGLECTED BAYBERRIES.

Time Was When the Crop Was Eagerly Harvested.

Years ago when the first frosts had come Connecticut people went out to pick the bunches of bayberries to make the pale green wax candles which when burning gave out the aromatic smell of the leaves that the pickers crushed in pulling off.

We no longer pick bayberries for company candles for the winter time. Except a few romantic souls who gather berries enough to make a candle or two for old memories, a few faddists who want to try to make bayberry candles by some discovery or other in a magazine and some stanch old New Englanders who love to get out in the pastures on a crisp fall day—these are all who gather the bayberries now.

Left to themselves, the clumps of bushes have spread out and in some cases overrun whole pastures. In some parts of Connecticut the bushes have grown very tall.

In Branford, on the coast, there are almost bayberry trees, as many can be found growing along the highways ten feet tall and some even taller. These bayberries must be very old. You cannot help wondering how many crops have been picked off them in years past.

As early as 1717 the town records show that the gathering of bayberries on the highways and common was forbidden before Sept. 15. A fine of 10 shillings for each violation was the penalty. It appears that the wax from the berries was used in making a blacking and a salve and that bayberry wax continued an article of trade in Branford down to the last fifty years.

Human nature being about the same one century to another, there was probably in 1717 a great complaining of people who picked the berries "before they were half ripe" or "got up mornings before anybody else had a chance," hence the regulation and the fine.

But what a breathless, hurried bayberry picking it must have been the morning of Sept. 15!—Hartford Courant.

Carrie Nation

Certainly smashed a hole in the bar-rooms of Kansas, but Ballard's Horehound Syrup has smashed all records as a cure for coughs, bronchitis, influenza and all pulmonary diseases. T. C. H.——, Horton, Kansas, writes: "I have never found a medicine that would cure a cough so quickly as Ballard's Horehound Syrup. I have used it for years." Sold by W. M. Johnson.

Ambitions.

The toiler in the city had been given an advance in salary. "Now," he said jubilantly, "I can begin saving to buy a farm."

The agriculturist looked at the check received for his season's wheat. "Another such crop or two and I can move into the city," he mused.—Philadelphia Ledger.

The person who disturbed the congregation last Sunday by continually coughing is requested to buy a bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. J. W. McCollum & Co.

HOW ARABS FIGHT.

Their Aim Is to Wound an Enemy, Not to Kill Him.

"A striking point in the Arab's character," writes a traveler of what he saw in Mesopotamia, "is his intense dislike of bloodshed and savagery. The tribes of the Jazirah are continually at war, and, as I have had plenty of evidence to the contrary, I think it would be absurd to accuse them of cowardice, but no one who has seen them or talked to them can fail to be struck with their extraordinary lack of vindictiveness and their wonderfully merciful way of fighting. An Arab never fights to kill. His objects are to capture, to incapacitate or to frighten into submission. He will, it is true, do a great amount of material damage—burn villages and ruin crops—but he will never take life unnecessarily or refuse quarter and never, as far as I know, beat or ill use a prisoner. On the other hand, a desert Arab will rob and tyrannize over his weaker neighbors in a peculiarly ruthless way and always do his best to make agriculture impossible.

"Their method of fighting is almost entirely confined to the use of the lance, which is carried javelinwise, the lance itself being a light bamboo some eighteen or twenty feet in length, with a long knifelike head. A band of horsemen from 200 to 300 in number comes swooping down on the herds of the enemy, some driving off succor while others carry away the booty. The defense of the herds against these attacks is similar, a swift pursuit and an endeavor to draw off the marauders being the usual method. Generally the advantage lies with the attacking force, as the defenders usually look to recouping themselves by a similar attack rather than to recapturing the lost herds immediately. The reason is that the marauding party if hard pressed might hustle the captured animals unduly and made them almost worthless.

"The rules of war in the Jazirah are as strictly and decently observed among Arabs as by the white and red knights in 'Alice in Wonderland.' To kill an enemy in battle is discreditable and savage. To wound slightly is what is aimed at, and to wound a man slightly with a bamboo lance twenty feet long is no small feat of skill. To surrender is not discreditable. Flight is as justifiable as attack. To carry on warfare at night would be scandalous and shameful or, if we choose to take a cynical view, productive of inconvenient reprisals. Camps, as far as I could ascertain, are practically out of bounds for a similar reason. Warfare in the Jazirah is an elaborate form of sport.

"I have yet to hear a Bedouin speak ill of his enemy, even though he may have had the worst of it himself. Indeed, as far as I could see, there was as little personal animus between hereditary foes as exists between two elevens of cricketers. Of course, at times regrettable things are done, but the occasions are very rare indeed. The only really discreditable aspect of the intertribal warfare is the ruthless way in which the Bedouins of the shepherd tribes plunder the poor agricultural dependents of their antagonists, who, having neither arms nor horses, are incapable of defense."—Chicago News.

A Study in Names.

The names on the little vestibule plates in a New York apartment house are the subject of a letter from New York in a Vienna paper. "I had to stand in the little space," the writer says, "waiting for some one five flights up to pull a string which opens the entrance door. This took a long time, and I had opportunity to study the names of the people in the house. These were some of the names: Becker, Schneider, Schuster, Keiner, Schreiner, Fuhrman and Drucker. At first I thought that the various apartments were occupied by persons engaged in trades named on the little signs, but this was not so. Becker (baker) was a clerk; Schneider (tailor) was a railroad employee; Schuster (shoemaker) was a cigarmaker; Keiner (waiter) was an electrician; Schreiner (carpenter) was a woman, a dressmaker; Fuhrman (teamster) was a barber, and Drucker (printer) was a painter. The person whom I visited escorted me to the door and called my attention to one little sign which I had overlooked. It was inscribed 'Baker.' 'That,' he said, 'is the only American family in the house, and they have a boarder whose name is Carpenter. Both men are ironworkers.' It all made me think I had been at a labor union convention."
